EXCITING NEW PROGRAMS IN 2014!

EBOLA PREVENTION PROGRAM

Our supply distributions played just a small role in Senegal's impressive and successful fight to become the first country declared free of Ebola by the WHO during this outbreak.

EMILY D'ANCONA RESOURCE CENTER

We are excited to be offering new educational opportunities for all members of the Kadiogne community—both young and old!—at our new computer lab in our Emily D'Ancona Resource Center, which is housed in our community center and contains four new state-of-the-art computers and a laser printer.

'Kids of Dakar' Team: Antoinette Zoumanigui, Senait Bekele, and Alev Erhan

Café Tapalapa is the first project in our new Hunger Program in Dakar. We provide nutritious and delicious hot meals and a safe space for some of the thousands of children who spend their days begging on the streets of the city. Our café staff and our 'Kids of Dakar' team from the University of Pennsylvania have been working hard to get this new program off the ground!

HEALTH CLINIC IN HAMET DOULA We continue to fund the health clinic in this remote village, which provides otherwise inaccessible medical care to several villages.

...and success in our continuing programs

AGRICULTURAL PROGRAM

We continue our agricultural efforts, experimenting with different rice varieties in an effort to better understand the agricultural potential of the land around Kadiogne. We are working to develop a self-sustaining model, in which our investments in local agriculture will provide employment and boost the local economy, and the profits will be used to fund our wide range of community programs.

SCHOOL SUPPLY DISTRIBUTION

We continue to provide school supplies and educational materials to thousands of children each year among our 17 partner schools.

PRESCHOOL PROGRAM

We continue to operate our base village's only preschool program, which offers approximately 60 young children an early start to their education each year.
