Pulaar Literacy Classes

There are about 50 residents of Kadiogne who are very excited about a new skill that they have been working on: they are learning to read and write in their native language! Pulaar language teacher Djibo Tall brings a formal university education in the language, as well as an infectious enthusiasm for teaching his students in Kadiogne to read and write in their native language. Djibo offers two levels of study to about 50 students, many of them women who are excited to be learning this new tool to help them keep records for the small businesses that they operate in order to help support their families. Kids of Kadiogne is proud to be funding these courses and making them available to residents free of charge!

We need a little extra boost for the coming school year!

We have had an exciting year, and we'll be telling you all about it when we do our end-of-the-year fundraising, but we are in urgent need of additional funding to ensure that we are able to deliver school supplies for the school year starting in October. There are about 2,500 students among our 17 partner school in the region who are counting on our assistance, and we need your support now to help make that happen.

Please make a contribution on our website or send a check today! Thank you!
